WE NOMINATE

Frederick William Luttmann, one of Nassau Street's most personable "institutions," who this past week—with no fanfare whatsoever—observed the kind of golden anniversary that solidifies a community's faith in the things which are America's. It was on April 4, 1904, that a 22-year old native of Dayton, N. J., bought out a veterinarian and became sole proprietor of the "last store down on Nassau Street, away from the center of the business section." A half-century later, when only a few remember that his store sign for years on end proclaimed "F. W. Luttmann—Harnessmaker," this respected independent businessman is still welcoming customers to his original location (132 Nassau Street) and has no present intentions of "stepping down."

As the oldest son of a German-born saddler, whose work was known throughout Northern New Jersey, Luttmann had no choice of trades. He served his apprenticeship in "Fritz" Luttmann's Dayton shop, stitching harness in the evenings after school and gradually assimilating the "know-how" of the leather business. With six younger children at home, Luttmann knew that his future was his own. He saved all he could make, raised celery-plants and pigeons to supplement his earnings and eventually established himself here. He still remembers the sinking feeling of assuming full responsibility for paying an $18 monthly rental for an entire two-story Nassau Street building!

This country's "Big Change" in the opening half of the 20th century was reflected in Luttmann's career. For instance, he made his first "big sale" in 1905—a hand-made set of double harness for Mrs. Grover Cleveland's spanking pair of coach-horses. In the same era he pedaled from house to house to repair trunks and thought little of strapping a saddle-pad on his shoulder to deliver a new trunk on his bicycle. As year trailed into year, it was obvious that the demand for harness would decline to the status of a luxury trade, but few could foresee, even in the 1920's, that "lightness," rather than the old stand-bys of "heavy construction" and "durability," would become the chief selling-point for luggage.

In keeping abreast with "anything in leather," now ranging from tiny bag-tags and key-cases to palomino rawhide traveling cases, "an occasional flat saddle and surprisingly few trunks," Luttmann finds that Princeton, particularly in the past decade, has gained a remarkable reputation as a trading center. He is as proud of the number of out-of-Princeton customers he meets daily on Nassau Street as he is of his hundred or more carefully cultivated hybrid tea roses. If pressed, he may also mention that he served for a quarter-century as an Elder of the Second Presbyterian Church and for nine years as an active member of "Hook and Ladder."

For his radiant enthusiasm for anything pertaining to Princeton; for personifying many of the ideals Americans traditionally associate with their men of distinction; for insisting with unbridled energy that "If I were allowed to do so, I wouldn't hesitate to start out all over again," he is Town Topics' nominee for

month ago, Mrs. Chapin's School ran a full page advertisement to tell the Princeton community that it "must find a new home or close." As a result of its appeal, a solution may be near at hand.

From more than 50 replies that the advertisement brought, a firm offer has been made to purchase the 75 Cleveland Lane home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Colpitts. Unusually spacious and offering fully adequate area for outdoor recreation, acquisition of the large residence would permit the school to continue filling the need that exists for it in the community.

A decision has not yet been reached on the transaction, but Mrs. Amos Eno, president of the Chapin board of trustees, said this week there is reason to expect that the sale will be completed. Founded in 1931, the school has an enrollment of 45 and has been operating "in the black." Since 1951 it has been located at 11 Mercer Street, but its lease there is not renewable, the factor that made necessary the present unusual search for a home.

University on TV. A major
"extra-curricular" aspect of Princeton University's prolific educational program will be inaugurated Saturday, April 17, when the first of eight weekly half-hour television shows is presented over WNBC-WNBT, Channel 4.

Each Saturday afternoon
through mid-June from 5:30 to 6, the series will deal with current thinking in the arts and sciences
—in physics, psychology, music, chemistry, biology, history and literature. Expected to rank as a highly worthwhile contribution to the ever-growing field of educational television, the series will be known as "Princeton '54."

The opening "assignment" has gone to Professor Eric N. Rogers, British-born scientist and member of the Department of Physics.
His course at the University ranks among the most popular in campus polls, and will be presented to the television audience

School Voting Set

Tuesday, May 18, has been set by the Borough Board of Education as the date for a special referendum of voters of the municipality on a bond issue to expand the present high school.

Steadily increasing population during the years immediately ahead is understood to be the reason for the move. The amount of the bond issue and full details of plans for improving present facilities and adding to the building will be made public at the meeting of the board of education on April 27.

under the title, "Drops, Splashes and Atoms."

Among other faculty members to be seen in the ensuing weeks will be Dr. Hadley Cantril, psychology; Professors Edward T. Cone and Roger H. Sessions, music; Dr. John Turkevich, chemistry; Dr. Gordon A. Craig, Dr. E. Harris Harbison, Dr. Maurice Lee, Jr., history; Dr. Arthur K. Parpart, Dr. Elmer G. Butler, Dr. John T. Bonner, biology; and Dr. E. Dudley H. Johnson, English.

Community Day on Saturday. Among the features of Community Day which will be held this Saturday at the Nassau Street School will be a quiz competition on factual questions about Princeton.

The "Know Your Princeton" quiz will be open to all residents of the community from teenagers up and prizes of food will be awarded. The quiz will be held at 4 p.m. in the school auditorium.

While the quiz program is in session, younger children will be entertained by a special movie program in the kindergarten room. The program will be in addition to the four regular movie programs for all children scheduled for 10 a.m., 1, 3 and 7 p.m. The film program for adults will be shown at 1:30 and again at 8.

The list of organizations which will take part in the day-long program of exhibits, food sales and other activities has increased to 28. The day will open at 10 a.m. and continue through 10 p.m. The Council of Services and the Community Chest, the sponsoring organizations, have announced that parking will be available on the playground with an entrance on William Street.

Among the special features of the day will be "Dogs as Pets," scheduled for 11 a.m. in the auditorium. The program is designed for children and owners of dogs who are interested in hints on training and care.

A&P to Shopping Center. The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company will open a supermarket in the Princeton Shopping center, it was announced this week by Skillman and Skillman, the renting agents.

The new development means that the shopping center will house two food chain stores. Installation of fixtures in the 18,000-square foot Acme Supermarket being built for American Stores has nearly been completed.

Bunny Hop. Easter rabbits who aren't yet equipped for The Day will find suits, dresses, hats and accessories to make full at Lillian Bellows, 20 Nassau.

For the smallest girls in the family, we found exquisite embroidered organdies from size one to size four. Some are sheer, sleeved with a ruffle that looks like a pinwheel. Others are true pinwheels. One is white with pale blue embroidery and a stiff white lace collar to make it stand-out.

For this size we have a choice of different embroidered white and pastel dresses, some of the hand-work done in colors. Prices are in the neighborhood of $10.95. One older sister about 8 or 10 could wear a white princess style organdy embroidered with small violets.

Little girls who like to be tailors will find grey flannel suits for $2.95, some with contrasting collar treatment like the blue liner over-collar on one grey jacket. Small boys may choose among several fabrics: grey flannel, white or natural linens, unen-like rayon.

It will be a reluctant child who parts off one of the organdy party dresses but when the time comes show her a three-piece straw

Obituaries

Mrs. Catherine L. Gembündi died March 31 at her home in Jersey City, Long Island. A native of Princeton, she is survived by her husband, Charles G. Gembündi and two sisters, Mrs. Ross M. Johnson and Mrs. Margaret Sullivan of Princeton. A service at The First Baptist Church followed by burial high mass at St. Paul's Church and burial in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Martha Wilson Fetter, 77, died Sunday at her home, 168 Prospect Avenue. She was the widow of Dr. Frank A. Fetter, well-known Princeton economist who joined the Princeton University faculty in 1911.

Her survivors are a daughter, two sons and two sisters, one of them Miss Olive L. Whitson of Princeton. Interment service will be held from her home Saturday at 2:30. Interment will be in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Katherine T. Galt, 90, died April 1 at her home in Franklin Park. She had formerly lived at 200 Nassau Street. Widow of John M. Galt, she is survived by three daughters, including Mrs. Elizabeth of Princeton, and a brother. A service at The Mother Funeral Home was followed by interment in Newport, Del.

Roger L. Jackson, eight-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jackson, 39, of Route 27 died suddenly April 1 at Princeton Hospital. In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Margaret Ann; a brother, George; his maternal grandfather, David Lewis, Sr.; and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jackson, 26. The funeral and interment were in New Brunswick.

Dr. Louise Kennedy Kiser, wife of Dr. Clyde V. Kiser, died March 31 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. A research associate at Princeton University, she was coeditor of "Population Index," a publication of the Population Association of America.

Dr. Kiser was a graduate of Reed College, Portland, Ore., and had both a master's degree and her doctorate from Cornell. She had taught in secondary schools and had written widely in her field of population research. Her home, 201 Hawthorne Avenue, Penns., was a quiet place where her other survivors. A funeral at the University Chapel was followed by burial in Bessemer City.

Mrs. Katherine M. Mulvey died April 4 at Princeton Hospital. A native of Princeton, she was the wife of Thomas J. Mulvey, Sr. of Cemetery Neck Road. Her other survivors include her son, Mr. M. Frank Cappon, Jr., a son, Thomas Jr., both of Cranbury; two sisters, Mrs. Charles H. Brown and Miss Dorothy, both of Princeton; and two brothers, including George Dunbar Sr. of Princeton. The service at the Mother Funeral Home was followed by burial in Princeton Cemetery.

The new A&P market will be located on the north side of the shopping center and will be the only complete store in the area. Work has already been started on preparing fixtures and equipment for the new market. No announcement has been made to date as to whether the present A&P store on Nassau Street will be kept in service.

Ira M. Hopcock, manager of the present A&P in Princeton, welcomed the opening of the new store in the Shopping Center, commenting, "our many friends in the Princeton area will be pleased, we are sure, with the scope of the store layout and the service we can render. The opening of the new store will mark A&P's 40th year of service in Princeton."

senders invited to borrow a variety of jingles to salute the season, on this particular occasion, Easter. Martin M. Liples, manager of the Princeton Office, tells us thousands of these messages will go from parents to children throughout the country during the coming week.

On a multi-colored Bunnygram (which includes an Easter Rabbit with a pack of eggs strapped to his back looking as if he'd like to thumb a ride on Santa Claus' sleigh), you have your choice of: "Thump! Thump! Thump! Yep, that's me. All set to see you Easter morn with what you like so very much."

Or, you may warm the wires with: "On Sunday with your little legs run and find some Easter eggs. I will hide them everywhere, so be sure to get your share." Another one caught our eye, leaving the vague impression that maybe it had been mixed in with the Valentine collection: "Go to bed early and sleep tight, and I'll come hopping in to see you tonight."

Bingo Debate at GOP Meeting. The Princeton Republican Club will hear a debate on the proposed legalization of bingo and raffles and remarks by GOP Congressional candidate William G. Freeman at its meeting Monday at 8:15 in the Chambers Street firehouse.

Neal Rigler of Penns Neck will speak in opposition to the bingo legislation, which is subject to local option at the April 20 primaries. His opponent will be George Habeeb, representing organizations which favor approval of the legislation. Each speaker will be allowed 10 minutes and a question period will follow.

Mr. Freeman, a Marlton lawyer who practices in Camden, will speak on his platform, which calls for complete support of President Eisenhower and his program. The public is invited.

THIS IS HOW IT'S DONE: Princeton High School pupils watch with interest as Paul Alford shows how simple it is to give a pint of blood to the project sponsored by the Red Cross. Mrs. Margaret Leitherman of Princeton Hospital is the technician and Mrs. Mary Sage, former executive secretary of the Red Cross now aiding in direction of the Blood Donor program, looks on. Street; Robert L. Howland, Carter Road; Austin Brearley, 130 Spruce Street; and Richard K. Hill, 43 Wiggins Street.

Those fined for speeding included Joseph A. Toto, 34 Wether-spoon Lane; Ernest D'Andrea, 28 Hillside Road; Ferdinand Kochis, 78 Linden Lane; John DiDonato, 128 Jefferson Road; and Mrs. Elaine Balducci, 14 Craven Lane, Lawrenceville. Mrs. Bessie Siskowitz, 248 Hawthorne Avenue, was fined for passing a "stop" sign.

Decision Near. A decision is expected this month on the possibility of saving Lenox Hall, the Theological Seminary Library, for the future. Trustees of the institution, faced with plans for starting the $1,500,000 Speer Memorial Library shortly, will discuss the matter at their April meeting.

The physical process of moving a building that is 111 years old (according to John Hageman, 19th century historian, it was built in 1843 at a cost of $30,000) is obviously extremely difficult. Largely of stone construction, it would involve considerable reliance on mortar that had been poured and set more than a century ago.

Two additional letters asking that some plan be devised to avoid its demolition were received during the past week:

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The writer has admired the Lenox Hall Library—at the Theological Seminary since he was an architectural student in Princeton more than thirty years ago. He ventures to express the earnest hope and belief that a way will be found to preserve its quiet charm and sensitive relation to site.

If one of the purposes of zoning is to preserve values, surely great consideration will be given toward finding a way of solving the Seminary's expansion program without disturbing Lenox Hall in its present site. The values here would seem to be of a nature that, once lost, could hardly be recaptured.

ROBERT W. McLAUGHLIN

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

May I tune my heart and voice into the chorus that is beginning to swell throughout the community pro salute bibliothecae Lenoxiana?

For well over a century this graceful and well-proportioned creation of an unknown architect has in its spacious setting added even more beauty and dignity to a neighborhood itself not destitute of well-built houses. Nor is its beauty confined to the outside. Within, its high windows admitting all the light that the glass suffers to penetrate, and the utilization of all the space allowed him, mark the architect as a more intelligent craftsman than those who built the later Lenox Library on Stockton Street or the Chancellor Green. As it stands today the first Lenox Library is silent refutation of the charge, sometimes heard, that Presbyterian architecture is deficient in aesthetic feeling.

I will not labor arguments of a more practical and worldly nature: how the kin of the donor might feel at the tearing down of a gift that the Seminary once sought and thankfully received from their generous relative; how unfortunate would be the comment that more beauty had been destroyed than created; how hurt the alumni body might feel over the loss of a building many of them remember with affection.

Knowing, as I do, that "Seminoles" are second to none in intelligence, cultivation and the possession of the aesthetic sense, I must say that Mr. Bill's question "Is there no way of saving it?" will be answered in the affirmative.

HENRY L. SAVAGE

Dr. James K. Quay, vice-president of the Seminary, has said that he was misquoted in the statement attributed to him that the building will be made available to the community if it can meet the $100,000 cost of moving it. An offer of this nature has not made, he declared, emphasizing the point that "the future disposition of the building in question is entirely undecided at the present time."

Fathers — Miss Fine's. One hundred fathers took part in "Fathers' Night" at Miss Fine's School Monday, with the program including a condensed daily schedule of classes followed by their children.

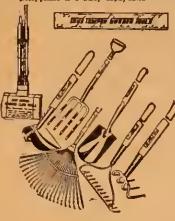

During seven 15-minute periods, the fathers heard members of the staff describe the programs and projects in each subject, and inspection was made of the equipment. Fathers of children in the lower school met briefly with faculty members and then heard an address on reading by Dr. J. Kendall.

Mrs. Shirley Davis, headmistress of the school, welcomed the fathers at an assembly period. Other speakers included Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeil, chairman of the board; Mr. Fred J. Eichelberger, vice-chairman of the board and chairman of the meeting; and Mrs. Howard J. White, president of the alumni association. Other members of the board, the faculty and members of the student council were introduced.

First National Honored. The First National Bank of Princeton received a certificate from the First National Bank of Philadelphia on Tuesday, marking the association of the two institutions as correspondent banks for 61 years.

John P. Poe, president of the Princeton bank, received the testimony at the 11th annual discussion session held by the First National of Philadelphia for representatives from its correspondent banks. Mr. Poe was also one of the speakers in a panel discussion on the subject of credit practices in a readjustment period.

Scrap Paper Collection Sunday. Princeton Post No. 76, American Legion, will be in its regular monthly paper collection this Sunday with the Borough's "Spring Clean-Up Week." Normal Postman paper collected chairman has asked for an extra turnout of members to aid the drive, which starts at 1 p.m.

Plans are now being made by the post for the annual Memorial Day parade. Organizations interested in taking part have been invited to contact the program chairman, D. Don Richards of 231 Nassau Street (tel. 0914). An arm band and a marching unit have already accepted invitations to participate.

Post 76 will entertain the Mercer County American Legion this Sunday evening to discuss plans for the annual visit of the national commander and the parade and dinner planned in his honor on May 15. Post Commander Sam G. Johnson, Nathaniel Melvin and Mr. Richards are members of the county planning committee. The next meeting of Post 76 will be on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Folk Dancing Program. The folk dancing of a number of countries will be featured at the YWCA's annual International Festival on April 24. To be staged in the Princeton High School gymnasium, it will offer a supper highlighted by table-to-table entertainment, followed by a folk festival and square dancing from 9 to 12.

The program will include a French folk dance with Mrs. Charles, a Spanish dance with a Chinese sword dancer by "Tenny" Teng; a Czechoslovakian dance with Marcel Vinicur as leader; "Venus and Mars," a traditional square dance by the Princeton YMCA Square and Folk Dancing Club; and an old fashioned square dance led by Mrs. Maxine Meurer. Art "Lucky" Egan, a folk expert, will be in charge of the dancing, and a dinner for the N.J. School for the Deaf will be the caller.

Church Officers to Meet. Lee Bristol, Jr. of 6 Olden Lane will speak Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church to the union meeting of church officers, taking as his subject, "What On Earth Can We Do About It?" Mr. Bristol, advertising manager of the Bristol-Meyers Corporation, is president of the Laymen's Council of Princeton.

He will be interviewed by James A. Rowan, an elder in the Second Presbyterian Church. Participating, in addition to these two churches, are the First Baptist, First and Westerly Presbyterians, Mount Pisgah AME and Trinity Episcopal.

Weather Report

New Jersey got typical New Jersey weather this week: an all-time, thoroughly unseasonable low of 24 degrees on Monday, followed by a warm spell that shot the thermometer into the seventies by mid-week. Residents in rural areas could report temperatures as low as 20 and 21 degrees, and even the official reading set a record unequalled in the 70-year history of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Drought note: Precipitation since the first of the year is more than four inches below normal.

New York City—Today painted by Mrs. Virginia Reese Peterson is now being exhibited at the Present Day Club. The exhibit will continue through April 29.

Mrs. Livingston is a native of Princeton, having been born in New York. Her oils and watercolors include landscapes and portraits. In addition to the 35 paintings in the New York group, the exhibit also includes six scenes of Newport, R. I.

Festival Plans. Two pieces of Lenox China which came through the San Francisco earthquake and fire, charred but neither chipped nor cracked, will be part of the display planned for the Hunt School Spring Festival on May 8. The exhibit will also include samples from the sets of chin furnished by the well-known Trenton pottery to the Hunt School. During the Wilson, F. D. Roosevelt and Truman administrations, as well as from the service made for the King of Arabia.

The festival will also offer an antiques room, a display of imported table linens, and among them will be an appliqued cloth from the Madeira Islands that was three years in the making. An Alencon lace cloth from France will also be shown.

Miscellany. A man lost his watch on Ridgeview Road last weekend and advertised the fact in Town Topics. A woman found it, read the ad and called him to say she had found his watch but was sorry that the back was missing. He said that was all right, he had found the back when he had gone out to look for the watch but that was all he could locate, and many thanks to you, lady.

Sports in Princeton

Workhorse. Joe Castle, working in his third baseball game in four days, apparently thrives on steady duty. After hurling four innings against N.Y.U. and two against Villanova in bitter cold weather, he welcomed Tuesday's warmth with a dazzling two-hit shutout plastered on Temple.

Joe had a no-hitter for seven innings, finally being tagged for a wrong-field single in the eighth and a solid blow to center with two gone in the ninth. He walked only two, fanned four and was invariably ahead of the batters. In addition to the pair of hits, just six easy flies were hoisted out of the infield.

The Tigers wrapped up their 7-0 victory in a hurry with a six-run surge in the first. Bill Schilling, who beat them a year ago, was short of control, yielding three walks, three hits and nicking a batter. One of the free tickets and the hit batsman came with the bases filled to force in two runs.

Eddie Stimpson's solid double to left center also was applied with three aboard. Castle's steadiness was evident from the beginning, and the visitors never had a chance. From the first through the seventh, he retired 18 men in order, and then it was the Tigers' lone error of the day that put a man on.

Castle's line-drive triple to right center, followed by Roy Flippin's infield hit, gave the victors their final run in the sixth. His performance was a great boost for Tiger pennant chances, since the tight schedule will find Dick Emery needing a breather several times during the coming weeks.

Following the trip to Easton to meet powerful Lafayette on Wednesday, three more vacation games confronted the Tigers. The schedule called for Tufts Thursday, Manhattan on Friday and Penn in a non-league affair Saturday. C. C. N. Y., Metropolitan champions, will be here Tuesday at 4.

Track Team Wins. Princeton's track team literally ran over North Carolina Monday in the first of two dual meets on the southern trip. The Tigers took all nine track events to compile a wide 81½ to 53½ margin. The javelin and the high jump were the only two field events to come Princeton's way.

Don Keller and Gabriel Markison each scored a double for the Princetonians. Keller won both hurdles, while Markison took the sprints. His respective times of 9.9 and 21.2 in the 100 and 220 were meet records. A mid-week meet with Duke and participation in the Carolina Relays this weekend complete the trip.

Hun in Action. The Hun School will open a 14-game baseball season, its first under Zig Emory as coach, Saturday afternoon. The Red and Black faces the George School at Newton, Pa.

Morristown will be the first opponent to come to the Edgerton diamond, in a contest set

Call for Softball

All teams interested in joining the Eagle Community Softball Leagues this season are asked to have representatives at the Eagles clubrooms, 134 Nassau Street, next Thursday, April 15, at 8 p.m. Openings exist for men's teams interested in playing either one or two evenings a week, as well as for girls teams playing one night a week.

Letters of application from sponsors should be presented at the meeting. Umpires for the 1954 season are also wanted, and should give their names to P. B. Silvester, league chairman.

for Tuesday, April 20. Exactly half of the schedule will be played here, with the remaining seven games road trips.

Hun will also be active in crew and tennis. The oarsmen open against Lower Merion on Lake Carnegie May 1, while the first tennis match is scheduled next Wednesday at Morristown.

News of the Theatres

Ticket Price Relief. Theatre and movie-going will be a little less expensive than it used to be, as a result of the tax cuts that went into effect last week. The Playhouse and The Garden are more or less splitting the tax relief with patrons, while McCarter Theatre is passing just about all of it along.

The fact that The Playhouse raised its scale during the first week of March means, however, that film-goers will still be paying more for their tickets than in previous years. The scale at McCarter, on the other hand, looks like that of the 1940 era.

The lower scales now in effect: Playhouse, children 25 cents for matinees and 30 cents in the evening; adult matinee prices are 45 cents in the orchestra and 75 cents in the loge; evening prices for adults are 75 cents for the orchestra and 95 cents in the loge. (CinemaScope prices have been similarly reduced.) The Garden: children 20 cents for matinees and 25 cents at night; adults matinee prices are 35 cents for the orchestra and 50 cents for the loge; in the evening the prices are 50 cents for orchestra and 60 cents for loge.

At the McCarter, the evening scale is $3.30, $2.75 and $2.20 for the orchestra and $2.75, $2.20 and $1.65 for the balcony. The matinee scale is $2.75, $2.20 and $1.65 for the orchestra and $2.20, $1.65 and $1.10 for the balcony. A plan is now being devised to refund the differences on tickets already sold for "The Fourposter" and the Jose Greco dance troupe, both coming the week of April 19.

MURRAY THEATRE

The genial world of "Harvey" continues on display at Murray Theatre nightly through Saturday evening. The curtain is at 8:30 and tickets may be obtained at the University Store during the day and at the box office before the performances.

The Community Players should be thanked for presenting the Pulitzer Prize comedy. There are some discouraging aspects of amateur acting and production, but in general the Players have been able to bring this innocent vision of a warm and friendly society into a happy existence.

In dress rehearsal at least, the play carried the performers. The circumstances also accounted for the technical flaws, and several nights of performances can be expected to improve a number of things, including the acting, but unfortunately not the casting.

One of the definite plus factors in the production is the performance of Herbert McAneny as Elwood P. Dowd. Mr. McAneny has given many things to the community, both on and off stage, but none of them have been more pleasant than his characterization of this befriender of humans, six-foot one-and-a-half-inch rabbits, and bartenders.

Harvey the rabbit is an archetype of dreams of a helpful animal creating a happy world. Through Dowd's (and Mr. McAneny's) vision of him, he can win out over reality, which as everybody probably knows, is the story of the play. If hydrogen bombs and such have been getting on your nerves, you ought to go see the Community Players and their "Harvey." As the play says, "Harvey is bigger and grander."

The government's way of handling the reductions in the theatre admissions tax has thrown most theatres into something of a whirl of stamping new prices on tickets, working out refund plans, changing posters, etc. The new price scale at McCarter (see above) will be in effect for the coming "Fourposter" and the Jose Greco Spanish dance troupe.

The difference in price will be refunded at the theatre for tickets sold in advance. Regular public sale for both attractions begins this Monday at the University Store (tel. 3333) at the new price scale.

John Beal and Carol Stone will be starred in "The Fourposter." The comedy hit which traces a marriage from the first night through 34 years will be launched on a new coast-to-coast tour with the Princeton engagement. The Jan de Hartog offering has proved immensely popular since it opened on Broadway with Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy starred.

Performances of the play on Monday and Tuesday evening, April 19 and 20, will open the busiest week at McCarter for some time. The Jose Greco company will give three performances on Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24 (including a Saturday matinee).

Mr. Greco has won remarkable

Music in Princeton

Varied Career, Fine Pianist. An evening of fine pianism, consisting of works by Bach, Schuman, Chopin and Debussy, was offered in the First Presbyterian Church assembly room by Margaret Barthel, winner of the 1950 Naumburg Award. The fabric of Miss Barthel's background is quite impressive: she has been a scholarship student of Olga Samaroff and of her father, Professor Charles DeBodo of the Philadelphia Academy of Music; has given numerous recitals; and has made appearances as a soloist with major orchestras in such music centers as New York, Detroit, Philadelphia and Washington.

Apparently a woman of inexhaustable energy, Miss Barthel also has two more careers in different locales: in St. Paul, faculty member of Macalester College, and in Minneapolis, where she, her husband and their three children make their home, she is a housewife. Notwithstanding these commitments, Miss Barthel manages to present a professionally competent and sensitive evening of music.

In the Bach Partita No. 1 in B Flat, Miss Barthel exhibited a firm comprehension of the even tone texture required in playing Baroque music, as well as a dexterous, precise technique. Schuman's variegated Carnaval sketches gave Miss Barthel the opportunity to display her ability to shape delicately a lyrical phrase, breathe warmth and grace into each undulating line, flash across the keyboard with kaleidoscopic brilliance, pace the Valse Allemande with radiant abandon, and, when necessary, pierce the entrails of the instrument with martial vigor.

It was also in the Schuman that one could perceive Miss Barthel's weak points: a tendency to over-pedal occasionally, thereby causing a momentary fuzzy blur between two different chords, or the notes of a running passage; secondly, a disposition to play more loudly from the middle to lower compass of the keyboard than the middle to upper register, thus causing some of her Schuman and Chopin to be as bottom heavy as Jack Falstaff. On the other hand, if the unbalance of registers was due to a flaw in the construction of the instrument, Miss Barthel is to be absolved and the piano maker severely criticized.

Chopin's Etude in C Major and F Major Prelude in B Minor and A Major were effectively performed in a musical and forceful manner, though this reviewer humbly submits that he could not always agree with the pianist's interpretive impulses.

The transition from Miss Barthel's style of playing Chopin to the more softly veiled elusive, yet impetuous style of Debussy was rather slow. Jardin Sous La Pluie sounded a bit more like Jardin Sous Une Chute D'eau; though the remaining Debussy works, La Soire Dans Granade, Feux D'Artifice, Bruyeres and Toccata were presented with greater control and subtlety, resulting in a deeply gratifying experience for her listeners.

acclaim for his perfection in dancing and dramatizing Spanish dances. His troupe was first organized in Madrid and proved a hit there, a notable accomplishment in itself, for Mr. Green is actually an American of Italian extraction who was born in Brooklyn.

THE PLAYHOUSE

New Faces (Thurs.-Sat.). They filmed this Broadway revue hit right off the stage in CinemaScope and color, which is a good thing, since the original show really got by on the way the talented young cast put across fine and sophisticated entertainment despite a shortage of outstanding material. They've given Eartha Kitt two more songs to sing, put a little more clothing on the girls and added a tiny plot idea.

Otherwise it's still a sketch-and-song intimate theatre revue. Ronny Graham, Alice Ghostley, Robert Clary and Paul Lynde are among the amusing performers. It may be cut by the time it gets here, but the show even had a skit based on "After Canasta" from the Princeton Triangle Show of three years ago.

The Command (Sun. - Tues.) puts a lively standard western story onto CinemaScope and the bang-up pictorial effects are worth noting. There seems to be something better about Indian raids and other whoop-em-up aspects under these circumstances. Actually, though, the film is the regular small-cavalry-group-fights-off-Indians formula. Guy Madison, James Whitmore and Joan Weldon are featured.

Pinocchio (Wed.-Sat.) is an old favorite. The feature-length color cartoon of a children's tale was one of Walt Disney's early and most popular achievements in the field. A reminiscent "must" for some, and what ought to be a real treat for a later crop of movie-goers.

THE GARDEN

Dangerous Mission (Fri. - Sat.) is routine despite the presence of Victor Mature, Piper Laurie, Vincent Price, William Bendix, Bettie St. John, etc. There's an avalanche, a forest fire, a slight adventure with mobsters, all taking place in the Technicolor setting of Glacier National Park.

Cease Fire (Mon.-Tues.) packs a lot of excitement into a melodramatic patrol on the battle lines during the Korean War. There is more than enough in the way of thrills as the story takes you into enemy territory under fire. Filmed with a cast of Korean and American veterans on location in the war-torn nation.

Keys of the Kingdom (Wed.-Thurs.) is a reissue starring Gregory Peck and Thomas Mitchell. Not reviewed at press time.

Alaska Seas (Fri. - Sat.) finds Robert Ryan in his usual villain's role. The setting (which is of more than passing interest) is of salmon fishing in Alaskan waters. Brian Keith is the "good guy" and Jan Sterling the object of romantic competition. Lawlessness finally loses out after a good deal of violence and treachery.

Picking the Winners. - Brooklyn's Yankees to win in the major leagues again, this man said without a moment's hesitation. "There isn't a team in either league strong enough to beat the Yankees," he said. "Milwaukee will be second in the National and the Indians will be runners-up in the American."

One eye on the opening date of the baseball season next week and the other on the year of finish, Tom Brophy was providing diamond fans in this community with plenty of ammunition for armchair fans. Town's number one Dodger fan and operator of a shoe store that serves as year-round headquarters for sports talk of all kinds, Brophy was ready to put them on the line again.

Last spring, it involved him in all sorts of bets and a lot of jovial handshakes. Most of them were right and only three of the 16 teams were far off on his form chart. He had the Milwaukee Braves as second division, the Giants in second place and they reversed this order; he had the Red Sox last and they finished fourth.

This year, he's giving Milwaukee credit for strength but won't rank the Red Sox higher than fifth and has the Giants sixth. A report on the latter prediction looks like a dead end of time and resulted in the immediate formation of the League for Abolition of Abuse of the Giants.

Headquarters are at TOWN TOWERS with members of all L.G.F.'s (Loyal Giant Fans). Dues are five cents, with the funds raised going to purchase caskets with which to serenade Brophy next September.

Redlegs a Long Shot. Tom has one eye-opener among his top four teams in the N. L. He thinks Cincinnati is potent and the possibility of young pitchers developing in the season will land the Redlegs in first division. They haven't been there in over a decade.

His order of finish:

National	American
Brooklyn	1. New York
Milwaukee	2. Cleveland
St. Louis	3. Chicago
Cincinnati	4. Washington
Philadelphia	5. Boston
New York	6. Philadelphia
Chicago	7. Baltimore
Pittsburgh	8. Detroit

Backing His Choice. The return of Don Newcombe to a team that won last year by 13 games should make the Dodgers at least as strong as they were a year ago. Tom believes he thinks the hitting is not quite as powerful as agreed, that Jim Piersson, Pee-wee Reese and Roy Campanella are all a year older. But it's Brooklyn again, he feels sure. Yankee domination of the American League, he believes, will continue. Brophy believes. All-around ability, the acquisition of several good rookies and the fact that no other team in the circuit is markedly improved will all work in the Banks' favor, he thinks.

Fred Kroog, former Lafayette pitcher now living here who is number one among Princeton Loyal Giant Fans, says he thinks Tom picked the Polo Grounders sixth just to get Giant fans' goats. "Not at all," Brophy replies. "They won't be the best team in the league. The future is still uncertain and they're depending too much on Willie Mays."

It could be an interesting season, and Tom's good-natured willingness to go out on a limb by climbing into print with his predictions will make it more so.

One-Ron Games Divided. Princeton's baseball team opened its season by splitting a pair of close contests. The Tigers bowed to S.Y.C. in ten innings Saturday, 5-3, and by a 3-3 count, and then outlasted a Villanova team on the latter's diamond Monday, 7-6.

Holdout of the first game before the tide turned, Dick Emery picked up the win after a two-year career against Villanova. He needed relief from Joe Castle in the eighth, but was credited with the triumph after a strong start.

Most surprising factor in the Villanova game was the show of hitting strength credited to the Tigers. After a weak performance against S.Y.C. they collected ten blows on Monday, including a Continued on Page 16

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON: Ferris Thomsen (center), coach of Princeton's national lacrosse champions, was an American as an undergraduate at St. John's College, Annapolis. His son, Ferris, left, is captain of the team at Penn, who are here. Left, is a son of a track-man for Princeton. The family relationship will be in the spotlight when the two teams meet May 5.

long triple by shortstop Dick Savage.

The losers obligingly weighed in with eight errors. Princeton showed particularly well in contract work. It was guilty of only one, Eddie Donovan's aggregation moved out to a 7-2 lead, largely on the strength of a four-run home run, before the Wildcats rallied.

Enright yielded two more in the sixth and when trouble developed again in the eighth, Castle came on after only one day's rest. The Tigers had to settle for a quick 4-2 even, and Princeton brought home its second one-run triumph over the Mainlanders in the last of the ninth. Last spring, it was 4-3 at University Field.

Oppener lost. For six innings against N.Y.U., the Tigers got top-flight pitching from sophomore Craig McCallum, who, so far, had unusually good control for a newcomer making his first start on a miserably cold day. In fact, if the temperature had been on McCallum's side, he might have gone the distance and achieved a well-earned victory.

As it was, he tired in the seventh and Joe Castle took over. A few errors ended the game, and the Tigers to the people and they went on to win, 4-3, in extra inning. The thermometer was around the freezing mark on what may well have been the coldest opening day in nine-plus decades of Princeton baseball.

The Tigers pushed across their first two runs in the fourth when Herb Bittlingmeyer walked three batters after two were out. McCallum then dropped a single over first to score Pete Millard and Al Fyles.

Castle seemingly had pitched his way out of the bases-full jam but he forced the batter to ground to Fyles at third. One out at home was a good bet, with a chance of a double play but the ball went through Fyles' legs and the score was tied.

Roy Filippin walked in the seventh, took second on a wild pitch and scored on an error as the result of Gordy Gray's wrong field double. With one out, John Easton hit the signal to squeeze home the winning run. His first home run barely rolled foul and his second with two strikes was missed, Thomas being trapped for the final out.

It was Bittlingmeyer's second game over Princeton in two years. He gave six hits, fanned 11 and incredibly, better as the game grew longer and the temperature colder.

The Orange and Black had all sorts of trouble with its fielding, some of it obviously attributable to the chill weather. Five errors were chalked up against it, two of them playing a part in three of the runs N.Y.U. scored.

Lacrosse Team Splits. Princeton's lacrosse team will face Harvard Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on Poe Field in search of its second victory of the season. The following week, the Tigers will play the second half of a double-header, meeting John Hopkins at University Field after the baseball team takes on Cornell.

The Tigers opened last week with a victory over Dartmouth, taking the Indians' measure, 8-5. Len Thomsen (see picture) marked the beginning of his varsity career by scoring three goals, the Tigers holding a 4-1 margin at the half.

In Baltimore last Saturday, the strong Mount Washington Club handed Princeton a 10-3 setback. Bob Stinson gave the Orange and Black a brief lead late in the first period, but the ex-collegians were far too much for Princeton over the course of the entire game. No better collection of lacrosse players can be found anywhere.

Busy Future. Princeton High School's championship track team will open an unusually heavy schedule on Tuesday when a quartet of runners enters the Eastern United States 440-yard relay event at Randalls Island, N. Y. In all, the Little Tigers will take part in 13 meets under Coach Irwin Weiss, defending titles in many of them.

Weiss is planning to pick his relay entry from among Co-Captain Bob Taylor, Al Terry, Carl Brown, John Broadway, Ralph Jenkins, Garland Gilete and Gary Cortelyou. Cold weather has hampered practice but a fast quartet should be available from this group.

Three Central Jersey high school teams will go to West Point Wednesday to engage the Army Plebes in a novel meet. A combined squad chosen from PHS, New Brunswick and Highland Park will compete against the first-year cadets, and will be their guests afterward in the West Point dining halls.

Next week will also be marked by participation for the first time in the Bridgeton Relays at Bridgeton. The Little Tigers will be represented in the high hurdles, half-mile and two-mile relays. Schools from four states and the District of Columbia are entered.

Dual meets are scheduled with Hamilton, Trenton, Long Branch and Somerville. Success in all of them would give the Blue and White a victory string of 42 over a seven-year period.

Titles to be defended include the Mercer County and Central Jersey crowns, each won every year since 1948; and the Group III State title, which the high school has captured each spring since 1951.

was quite captivatingly performed. One looks, with great enthusiasm, towards Miss Barthel's honoring Princeton again with another recital in the near future, hoping that her next program will contain music a bit more contemporary.

(The foregoing review was written by Jack Urbont, a graduate student in music at Princeton University.)

McCARTER THEATRE

Manfred Clynes, the gifted young Vienna-born pianist who performed Bach's Goldberg Variations here in a concert last year, will give a recital next Tuesday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. Tickets may be obtained at the University Store (tel. 3333) and at the box office before the performance.

Mr. Clynes has just returned from a successful European tour. His program here will include the Fantasia in C minor by Bach; Beethoven's Sonata in E, Op. 90; Mozart's Sonata in B flat, K. 570; and Schubert's posthumous Sonata in B flat.

IT'S NEW TO US

ing of woolen garments. Its name is Woolite and it costs $1.50 for a pound can. You dissolve it in cold water, soak the sweater for two or three minutes then squeeze out the dirt. Rinse in cold water and dry in a cool place. We haven't tried it, but Clayton's tells us that it's incredibly good.

Check on Poppa. Arrow's new shirts at Lahey's, 150 Nassau, are checks, and so are the shorts and handkerchiefs that go with them. The colors are light tan, grey or blue with white. Checked boxer shorts are $2, full cut; handkerchiefs are 75¢ and shirts are $5. The same set in a stripe would be $4.50 for a shirt.

Jayson sends Lahey some pajama sets for warm weather. They are short in leg and sleeve, striped, solid or Tattersall in a crinkle crepe for $3.50 and up.

Sports shirts come in glen plaids. We saw some in grey, others in green, and there are Tattersalls and good clan plaids. Regular shirts begin at $3.50. Jersey T-shirts at about $1.50.

Carahna sets here, too, and a fine selection of nylon swim trunks to buy if you have faith in the weather.

Rayon ($1.50) and silk ($2.50) ties at Lahey's looked conservative to us, but Mr. Lahey says they are new patterns for the season. We found the designs small, light in touch and spaced widely on solid colors. Many of them are figures within other geometric figures.

Odds and Book-ends. At The Flower Basket, 136 Nassau, we found a dispenser for kitchen cleansers that's made like a coffee pot. Put the cleanser in the bottom, plug it with a cork and watch yourself if you're inclined to be sleepy when you pour the breakfast coffee. It's $2.25.

Planters for children are egg-shells with bunny peering over the top, or ducks standing proudly by their broken shells. A small house-plant is in each one and prices begin at $1.75.

White ceramic salt and pepper-grinder set has a black doodle design and wrought iron rack. It's $7 including the pepper. A matching oil and vinegar cruet set costs $6.50 but you may have a little one for only $3.

Cuff-links for men in The Flower Basket are large enamel pieces with gold, black and white patterns. Some have gold masks, others have gold musical notes, and some are just red and gold designs.

Book-ends are silver, brass or copper, heavy and leaf-shaped. We saw one like an upended oak leaf, one like a scroll and a third like a curled feather. For a rather formal room at $10 and $12.

Milk-glass collectors will want to look at some new objects in The Flower Basket's collection: candlesticks, compotes, a cigarette holder that looks like a hat, and a ruffled candy dish.
